It need hardly be said that Mrs. Lohs was a great lover of children. Her life was devoted to them. When she was in India, her delicate health made it impossible for her to leave India as a missionary, the disappointment was very great; but she rejoiced up to the day of her death that she had been able to write a hymn to "The Mother everywhere loved."

There has been no hymn written by her from poetic standpoint; but whatever defects it may have as poetry, few will doubt that it has served to awaken and deepen religious feeling in the hearts of thousands of young people.

"Well, mum," replied Mary, "that's for him to say. I was doing my best with the materials available."

Nice or Nicaea in ancient times was known as Bithynia, a small country of Asia Minor, and was the seat of the Roman Empire. It lay on the coast of the Sea of Marmora. During the second century before the Christian era Bithynia was an independent kingdom and Nicaea was the seat of the royal government. The scene was celebrated as having been the scene of the first general council of the Christian Church which sat from June 15 to August 25, 325, and adopted the Creed which, taking its name from the name of the town in which the council met, is known as the Nicene Creed. This creed emphasizes the divinity of our Lord and the doctrine of the Trinity. It is the ancestral creed of all Trinitarian churches the world over.

The photographs show some of the scenes along the route of this significant new voyage: (1) The Gulf of Alaska, the route of the 1,200-mile long coast of the largest and most beautiful glaciers in the world; (2) West Talos Arm, a stretch of water from which close to 200,000 caribou migrate each year; that, seen in the mountains, present a sight never to be forgotten. "The Prince Rupert" which will be "George" will be the Vancouver to Prince Rupert Alaska service by the Canadian National Railways this summer. These are air-transport and air naming and -signage on the coast of Alaska, a thriving city, up-to-date in every respect with many attempts to improve the village and with much more, including the mountains to famous, and the politics of interest. MAINLY FOR WOMEN

FRENCH HOMES ARE BEST KEPT

French women not only lead the world in style—they can also outdo the women in house making. Mary Gordon, authoress, says this since her marriage, she has divided her time between Paris, London and America, and should be able to judge these three nations quite impartially. That few foreigners get into the real French homes and they do not realize that the same art and workmanship goes into their daily life which is exercised to make their styles unique and fascinating, she says. "Every woman, despite her station, can cook, sew and keep house, as well as be charming. She also has an excellent business sense and can make her money work."

"You have only to seek the Frenchman, Frenchman and American at the table to realize the different home conditions."

"To a Frenchman," she says, "eating is a fine art. He orders a dinner with fine appreciation of foods and combinations. The women in this country have given him good food for so long he is a connoisseur."

"The American is quite lacking in discrimination in food. He is like a child in a candy shop wanting all the gay and gaudy dainties regardless of their contents."

"The Englishman eats merely to be fed. He takes neither artistic, nor childlike joy in his food. He wants something substantial and wants to eat of it."

"In France you will not find the women so interested in politics as the English women, or as interested in money as the American."

"But you will find her exerting strong influence in her own home, because of her housewifely virtues."

SPRING SKIRTS

Plants will be a feature in spring skirts. No rule will govern their placing except that they are not to be evenly all the way round. There may be an inverted pleat or two inverted at the centre front, panel style, or a group of fine pleats at the front or one side or both sides or just a few box or side pleats at the side attached to within a few inches of the bottom.

Where a belt is given with the skirt it is a wide one after the style of the belts on the sports dresses.

LOVELY COTTON BROADCLOTHS

Cotton broadcloths in stripes are lovely in color and general effect, and give almost the same appearance as striped wash silks. Both the cotton and the silks of this description are made in plain tailored styles with the round flat collar, the V neck, and hand collar, or deeper V and flat collar. They are made belted with plaits at the side and to be worn with the wide snood sports belts.

used. In cold weather a recently introduced machine will still run with difficulty. In such cases the usual remedy is to stand the sewing machine near a fire for a little while in order that the heat may make the lubricant run a little.

The hand of treadle machine very often becomes loose, but before cutting it or buying a new one try the effect of rubbing in castor oil. After the oil is on the hand turn the handle of the machine vigorously for a minute or two. This shrinks the band in nearly all cases.

Tension should be adjusted in accordance with the various materials that are being worked, so that the stitch is firm, but not tight. But tension is not always at fault if the stitch is imperfect.

TOILET TABLE

Bright Hair
A silver hair brush is used to give lustre to the hair. A piece of cotton wool is folded into a flat oblong-shaped pad and covered with a square of silk. This is used to brush the hair after it has been brushed in the ordinary way. The silk, which can be detached from the washing foundation and washed when required, forms a perfect means of imparting the much-coveted sheen to the hair.

Complexion
Cosmetics are going out of favor, and to obtain a pretty, natural complexion sponge the face two or three times daily with boiled water to which a few drops of simple tincture of benzoin have been added. This will soften and whiten the skin and leave it with a velvety surface to receive a dusting of the favorite powder.

Eyebrows
Beautiful eyebrows are essential to a perfectly groomed appearance, and the eyebrows will be brushed with a little brush smeared with pure glycerine every night and morning. This gives them the correct shape and removes any traces of powder which may have lodged in them.

Reducing
A double chin never adds to any woman's charm, but it is one of the ills the woman inclined to flesh is heir to. If you happen to have tendencies that way try this, let your head drop back on your spine as far as it will and in that position go through exaggerated motions of chewing. After you finish this, go over the chin and throat with a piece of ice wrapped in a towel.

Reducing the ankles is difficult, but it is decidedly worth trying. Rise as far as your tipses as you can and hold the position as long as you can, then go back to position and try again. Running on tipses is also excellent. So is this: Sit on the floor holding your knees with clasped hands and rotate the foot from the ankle as many times as you can without becoming too tired.

LOVELY RIBBON TRIMMING

The charm and variety found in ribbons explains their extensive use as trimmings.

Roman striped ribbon is one of the most useful forms of ribbon both for the milliner and dressmaker. The variety of colors in a ribbon of this type, less than an inch wide, makes it immensely useful for lending a touch of color to a sombre-colored hat or gown.

Scalloped-edged ribbon is a most useful accessory for the milliner. It will face up the brim or cover the crown of a hat most effectively, and eliminate the technical difficulty of making ribbon lie smoothly round the circle of a hat.

Ribbon is also being extensively used in the trimming of plain felt hats. The idea is to slit the felt and weave the ribbon in and out of the slit. Narrow ribbons naturally lend themselves to this treatment more easily than wide ribbons, and the smaller widths of velvet ribbon are even more effective than the silk varieties.

Then, again, ribbon applied on flat or left on in pleated bands, makes a most effective trimming for a smart hat to wear with a coat or tailor-made costume.

KEEPING PIANO TUNED

A pianist who understands his job, I am highly recommended, is as necessary to the well-being of the instrument as a dentist is to the human need. If the piano is used constantly it should be tuned once in two months at least to keep it in a high state of perfection; but where that is not possible no opportunity of availing one's self of a tuner's services at longer intervals should be missed. When it is thoroughly tuned, the tuner also draws out the spaces around strings and hammers and all the details that are in ordinary circumstances.

NEW IDEA FOR WOMEN'S GLOVES

A new idea has been developed in London in gloves for women's wear. They are made of artificial silk with invisible finger tips. The fabric tapes off into invisibility at the finger tips, displaying in a single way the natural fingers. How this is accomplished is not explained.

Pressing Business... Waiting for a Customer

WHILE the Malayan ironer pictured above lives in a picture from a book, a mass of wrinkles are cutting on his forehead while he waits for a customer. Malayan women do their own washing, but regard whatever ironing they need as an expert's job—requiring expensive and elaborate machinery with which they are not familiar. The Malayan ironer is proud of his mechanical equipment.

The Malayan woman who considers ironing a mystery, would be perplexed by the workings of a modern American laundry. He uses of intricate machinery for washing and ironing, and its careful attention to the party and changing properties of its soap. Laundry work here is highly specialized, and with the possible exception of a few dainty pieces which the modern housewife prefers to wash herself in white ivory daisies, all her laundry is entrusted to the big laundry.

Housewives who are readers of this newspaper may obtain free a helpful 50 page book, "Approved Methods of Home Laundry," by Mary Beale Ford, B. S. Write for it to Health Engineering Service, 65 East 11th Street, New York City.

Turkey Trotting Turns the Tick In the Laundry

THEIR buzzy Turkey Trotting turns the tick in the laundry. Her sturdy rhythmic tread on the soles of her shoes is the hexagonal waltz. Her companions are ready to beat the clothes with their flat-sole moccasins to loosen the dirt.

They use the primitive and not too cleanly method of washing in Turkey, in vogue when soap was unknown. The city dirt in the clothes being ironed, is in water, the labor of remover it was to get that the fabric was usually injured by the rough treatment. The dainty American housewife, who wishes to save both her hands and her clothes, uses the pure ivory white soap which is best for cleaning because of its neutrality, while efficient washing machinery and good soap takes the place of feet in the modern American laundry.

REVEAL BROOKS' LOSS

Last week The Independent contained an advertisement about the finding of a brooch. The paper was late that day and did not get in circulation until after 2:30 in the afternoon.

About five o'clock the author of the advertisement received a telephone message from a woman who had lost a brooch.

At 4:15 another message was received; and at 5:15 a third woman called.

Unfortunately none of these women had advertised her loss, so if their brooches have been found the finder probably will have possession.

But the brooch that was advertised apparently was none of these three. But it was to show that people read the advertisements in The Independent.

WILL CONTINUE EXPERIMENTS

Grimsby, Feb. 24.—An estimate of $15,000 for experiments in dehydration of fruit passed the House of Commons this evening. Hon. W. A. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, explained that experiments were being carried on in the drying of fruits at Grimsby, Ontario, and in Olanegan Valley, under the direction of the department.

The public was taking very well to dehydrated varieties which had been placed upon the market, the fruit had retained its original flavor, better than under any other process of drying.

At the present time, enormous quantities of dehydrated apples, apricots, peaches, plums and prunes were coming into the country from outside though there was no reason why Canada should not supply her own needs from the second grade fruits available in season.

Alvin A. Merritt, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of North and South Grimsby, passed away Sunday afternoon, February 15, 1925, in his 54th year.

Mr. Merritt's illness was sudden. He had been a life-long resident of Toronto and Ontario where a wide circle of friends will regret his death. Many will remember him as being an instructor in music. He was a member of the Methodist church.

He leaves to mourn, a widow, Minnie Walker Merritt, two daughters, Mrs. Frances Young, Aldershot and Mrs. Charles Barrie, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Farrell, Mountain Road, Grimsby, and Mrs. Harriet McCollum and one brother, James P., of Toronto.

LOSING FINGERS

As the result of a very painful accident at his home in Winona, on Thursday afternoon, while lowering a new pump into position, Robert MacFarlane suffered the loss of parts of two fingers, which Dr. W. W. Lee found necessary to amputate. Mr. MacFarlane was holding the pump while supports were removed from beneath it, and when the heavy metal slipped from his grasp, his fingers became jammed under the base.

THIRTY CLUB

Keeping up its reputation of dispensing genuine hospitality, the Thirty Club was host on Friday night, in the Beasly Community hall to a large attendance from town and surrounding district, who seemed to thrive more and more on the old time dances as the evening grew late. It was a happy gathering, jovial and full of pep, grandmothers and granddaughters and grandmothers and granddaughters entering into the spirit of the fun with all the exuberance that could be put into a waltz, quadrille or an eight-hand reel.

"Excelsior" Coffee

Good Coffee isn't accidental! You must make it from well cared for, well fed coffee beans that have been properly cleaned and knowingly roasted. For you can't make good coffee from improperly nourished, dirty and improperly roasted coffee beans. "Excelsior" blend is secured from the best coffee plantations of the world. It is "upland" coffee, slowly grown in the clear, cool, pure air of the mountains, so that the coffee bean extracts to the full its rich fragrance and aromatic flavor from the bounteous soil. "Excelsior" blend is rich in the two brain nourishing and body building principles that make good coffee—caffeine and caffeine. And because it is well grown, well roasted coffee, there is no trace of any injurious ingredients usually found in poorly nourished, improperly roasted cheap coffee. There is absolutely no injurious caffeine. It will make you a rich, nectar-like, health-giving beverage. And the price is no more than many low grade coffees—75 cents per pound.
